ROBBINS OF SATURDAY OF

Despite the unfavorable bank statement on Saturday, and the very insignificant volume of business, prices held firm, closing generally at the best quotations of the day. There seems to be no pressure to seil, and voluntary offerings are of small volume. There is an aggressive bear party, which professes pessimism on the country at large, and the stock market in particular, Efforts made by these "croakers" to define the unfavorable bank statement at 2 p. m., Monday, October 9, 1899.

SENATOR KEAN A LOSER BY HIS TROLLEY VENTURE.

Pays $4,346 to Union County, N. J., and Gets Nothing in Return.

United States Senator John Keau has drawn a check to the order of the Board of Freeholders of Union County, N. J., for $4,346.05 to pay for the expenses the county assumed in the preliminary work of trying to establish the much-talked-of Union County boulevard between Plainfield and Elizabeth.

Elizabeth.

It was planned to use one side of the boulevard for trolley tracks, and for the right to operate the trolley franchise Senator Kean offered to the county $250,000, agreeing to protect the county in its efforts to consummate the project. Opposition to the plan at various points killed it.

The conservative interests in the market have an abiding faith that money conditions will shortly become more favorable, and, judging from the known movements of cash, the bellef in casier money rates is well founded. Governors of the Stock Exchange could do nothing more pleasing to the better element in Wall Street than by taking summary action against the members of the Exchange who were guilty of manipulating the money market and establishing fections call loan rates. of the bank reserves justifies comparatively high rates, but does not indicate that at any time there was any legitimate cause for 30 and 40 per cent money. The National City Bank and some of the other large institutions which work in harmony with this institution, which aspires to assume in this country somewhat the same position which the Bank of England bas in Great Britain, were the prime movers in the marking up of loans beyond rates which were pustified by the conditions. One of the most unfavorable developments of the week was the sharp advance in sterling exchange. Considering the tight money in all of the European financial centres except Paris, it was perfectly natural that exchange rates should become firmer. It can hardly be considered a bear argument on American stocks when it is remembered that the advance in the discount rate by the Bank of England which caused the advance in sterling was	Blumenthal, Samuel, 334 West 84th st.
